PLEAD GILTY

Garry Preggy Fined For Keeping Gambling Devices.

The only case that has come to trial out of the number of charges which were filed against the men who were arrested as a result of the raids at Brownstown Saturday evening, was that of Garry Preggy. He pleaded guilty as charged and was fined $25 and costs, amounting to $33, in Justice Bosley's court for having gambling devices in his possession. It is said that this is the only case that will be tried in the justice's court, but that the other affidavits are in the hands of the prosecuting attorney who will file the cases in the circuit court.

R. C. Minton, attorney for the Indiana Anti-saloon League was in Seymour a short time Monday afternoon on his way home to Indianapolis from Brownstown where he assisted in making the affidavits against the men who were arrested as a result of a raid there Saturday evening. He was accompanied by the two detectives who secured the evidence and who assisted in making the raids. Mr. Minton will go to Terre Haute this week where a "blind tiger" case will be heard.

The detectives relate some interesting stories concerning their experiences in Brownstown. When they raided the room in which they discovered the gambling, one of the men who was said to have been several dollars in debt, held a number of good cards and refused to quit the game until several "hands" had been played although the officers were patiently waiting to take them in charge.

With Insurance Company.

Cecil Reynolds, who has been holding a clerkship in George Coffee's store at Brownstown for several years, went to Indianapolis this morning to accept a position with the Metropolitan Insurance Company. He was to report for duty at noon today. His family will follow him on Thursday and they will make their future home in Indianapolis. He is a son of Rev. Frank H. Reynolds, of near Brownstown. He has a brother who has been holding a good position with the Metropolitan Insurance Company at Indianapolis for some time.

New Vocalist Coming.

The young ladies of Seymour who are bringing Miss Flora M. Bertelle here as a vocal instructor, are to be congratulated on securing her services. She sings in the Jewish synagogue in Louisville and is considered the most versatile and experienced soprano in the city. She comes here to take Miss Kohnhorst's class and will doubtless have a number of new pupils during the year.

Chicken Feed.

We are now selling specially selected and cleaned cracked wheat, adapted for feeding little chickens, at $1.60 per hundred pounds. Orders for hundred pounds or over received by telephone or post card will be delivered any place in the city. We also have the regular wheat screenings at $1.40. tfs-m8tf

Good Show Coming.

W. G. Geile, manager of the Majestic, has secured the "House of a Thousand Candles" for Monday evening March 14. The play will be presented by an excellent company and a good house is already assured.

"Woman In Black."

The veiled "Woman in Black" made her appearance on S. Chestnut street a few nights ago. She went to the home of a prominent family in the south part of the city shortly after midnight, and after arousing the good lady of the house wanted to borrow $1.60. Her actions were very mysterious. At first she was rather insistent about wanting the money and a minute later, perhaps from becoming alarmed or possibly by finding that some scheme she had in mind would not work, she turned quickly around and walked away, going to the second house up the street. Then she crossed the street to a house on the opposite side but soon climbed in the buggy with the man who was waiting for her in the street and drove rapidly away, not having aroused anyone at the last two houses approached. At the home of the first lady she gave her name as Maggie, in order to get the door opened, the lady of the house having a close friend by that name. However, she was only allowed to talk through the screen and soon left as described above. There seems to be no good reason for such actions as these and the person or persons, who continue at such dangerous business, be it man or woman, will do so at their own risk.

W. C. T. U.

NIGHT LETTER

Service Inaugurated By Both Telegraph Companies.

Night letter service was inaugurated Monday night by both the Western Union and Postal Telegraph Companies, according to their announcements which were published some time ago. Under this arrangement the companies will accept for transmission a class of business known as night letters. These will be transmitted by telegraph and delivered the next morning either by mail or by messenger, at the option of the company. The rate for this class of business will be much lower than for regular day service. A night letter of fifty words may be sent for the regular day rate for ten words between the same points. For extra and additional ten words or less one fifth of the regular day rate will be added. All night letters are required to be written in plain English. No cipher or code messages will be received under this rate.

The reason for making this rate is that there is little or no business on the wires during the night and the companies believe that by giving this inducement a large business will be established. Many business firms it is believed, will find the "night letter" service very beneficial as important letters can be sent in much less time than they can be delivered by mail.

Letters can be left at the local offices any time during the day and they will be sent in the evening before the offices close. Letters sent to Seymour will be received here when the offices open in the morning.

The Postal Company sent several "night letters" according to the new arrangements Monday evening which proved very satisfactory.

Sunday School Convention.

One among the most notable conventions that the convention city has ever known is to be held in Indianapolis on April 25 to 28, inclusive. This gathering will be notable in various ways. It will be the first in importance, of its kind, to be held in the State, and the cause it represents is one of the most momentous that could possibly be presented to the children of men. Some of the most eminent men engaged in this work, both in Europe and America, are coming and will have a large place in the convention's proceedings. The date of its sitting will establish a veritable "red letter day" in the history of the cause in Indiana. It is likewise safe to predict that the combination of attractions that are here to be presented, will marshal a host of interested spectators and participants the like of which, for genuine ardor and high purpose the capital city has not, as yet, seen. It may not be generally known that a tour of eighteen of the most important cities of America (including Indianapolis) is being made by the eminent men who will appear upon the program, at various stages of the convention's proceedings, but such is the fact.

The meeting at Indianapolis will be both educational and inspirational in character, and will include a grand parade that, for numbers and import, will leave its impress upon the minds and hearts of the people of this State, long after the echoes from the convention shall have died away.

Outlook Good.

That natural gas, as a fuel in Indiana, will be available for many years, is the opinion of Bryce Kinney, state gas supervisor, expressed in his annual report to the Governor, and filed Monday through the office of the state geologist. He has faith in the southwestern Indiana field, and the district lying a short distance southeast of Indianapolis.

As an indication that confidence is felt in regard to Indiana's future in oil, Mr. Kinney points out that several wells are being drilled between Vincennes and Rockport, to ascertain if that section belongs to the same oil field now producing profitably for northern Kentucky and southern Illinois. One of these wells, he reports, is producing oil in satisfactory quantities.

Back From Missouri.

E. C. Bollinger and party have returned from their trip to southern Missouri. They report the weather very fine and the farmers very busy getting their corn ground ready for planting. The wheat there after being pastured all winter entirely covers the ground. It is not an uncommon thing in the vicinity of Charlestown to see a 1000 acre wheat field under one fence and the same is true of the corn fields. There is still a large amount of this part of Missouri in timber and cut over timber land, but it is being cleared up very fast. Mr. Bollinger has a number of good investments in that vicinity to offer and takes pleasure in giving information to those interested in Southern Missouri lands.

About the Government by Des Moines Plan Commission

MUCH is being said these days about the Des Moines plan, but in most sections of the country if you happened to ask Brown or Jones or Black just what the plan was you would probably get this reply:

"Why—er—er—it is a new scheme to get members for the meat boycott, of course. Why don't you read the newspapers and keep posted?"

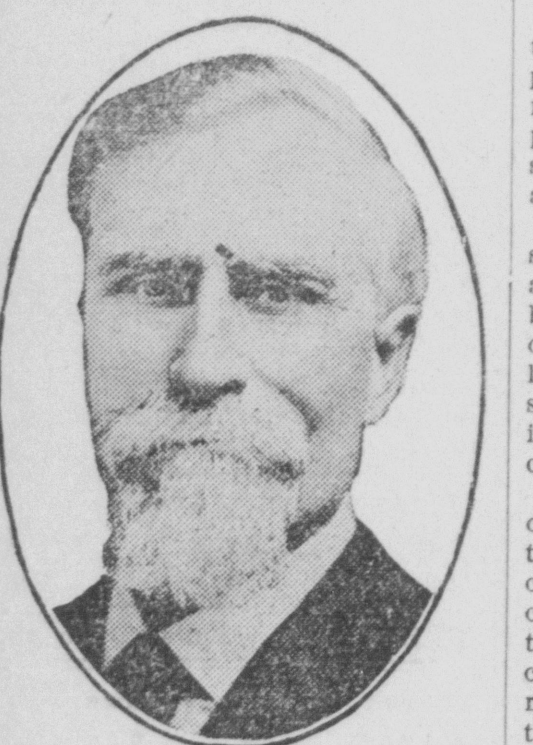

This information, as a matter of fact, would come about as near to hitting the mark as the missile thrown by a woman usually does, but there are pretty good indications that before long your question will be promptly and correctly answered wherever asked. For the Des Moines plan of municipal government—a plan for governing cities by a commission—is spreading rapidly and has already been adopted by about seventy-five communities. To better understand the plan we must go back to the time when Galveston was almost annihilated by the storm several years ago. At the first meeting of the council after the disaster Alderman McMaster in an address to the body said:

"It strikes me, and I believe we are all of one mind, that we are up against one of the most momentous propositions that any city ever had to face," and without casting the slightest reflection upon any member of the council more than upon himself he went on to say that he did not think the thirteen men had the ability to handle the problem which confronted them. He didn't think the ability to bring order out of chaos was among them, and if the members by resigning could place the city on its feet quicker it was their duty to resign.

Recognizing the incapacity of the city officials, the citizens through a committee appointed at a public meeting prepared a new charter, which was almost unanimously sustained by public sentiment, indorsed by the government of state and enacted into law by the legislature. It provided for what is known as a commission form of government by five citizens, two of whom were to be elected by popular vote at large, and three, the mayor and two commissioners, to be appointed by the governor. Subsequently the court of original appeals held the appointments void. The court of civil appeals sustained the validity of the acts in all details. To avoid legal complications the citizens' committee secured a modification of the law and provided for the election of the mayor and four commissioners by popular vote. The system was inaugurated, the credit of the city restored, public improvements undertaken upon a business basis, the credit of the city raised to a very high standard, individual confidence in the future of the place returned, and in every respect the new plan of government became successful.

Influenced by this experiment, Houston adopted the system with slight modifications. Later on Dallas, Fort Worth and El Paso secured similar charters. The movement for a simple commission form of government attracted general attention throughout the country, and, as stated, the plan so far, with some changes, has been adopted by about seventy-five communities.

Des Moines adopted the plan, with several changes, in June, 1907. The first commission took the oath of office April 6, 1908. The change from the old form to the new was not the result of a sporadic or spasmodic uprising of public feeling, but rather the culmination of a movement covering a period of several years. There had been considerable criticism of the practices of officials under the old plan, and the objections were only slightly remedied when reform officials were occasionally elected. It appeared that a change of system was what was needed. James G. Berryhill, a student of municipal government, made the initial suggestion, his idea being a division of the affairs of the city into five departments. Lawyers, the newspapers and people generally offered suggestions, and finally a committee drafted a charter.

The first mayor under the new system is A. J. Mathis. Mr. Mathis was formerly police judge. He is sixty-five years of age and has lived in Des Moines many years. He has a lucrative real estate business and is well to do. He is a Democrat in politics, and Des Moines is strongly Republican, an indication that the new plan caused the people to consider a man's business qualifications rather than his politics in selecting a mayor. The defeated candidates were Republicans. Cedar Rapids has also successfully adopted the plan.

In the commission form of municipal government as developed in the Iowa city many advanced ideas have been adopted—the initiative, the referendum, the recall, direct primaries and appointment of all city employees by civil service rules.

The officers elected by the voters of the city are a mayor and four councilmen, who hold office for two years. The five compose the city council or commission, and it has the general legislative and executive powers over municipal matters. Nominations for these five officials are made by direct primaries without regard to party affiliations.

The two candidates for mayor and the eight candidates for councilmen securing the highest number of votes at the primary election are the only eligibles for these offices to be voted upon at the municipal election. On the ballots used for the election there are no references to the party affiliations of the nominees. A public canvass of all the votes cast in an election must be made by the city clerk the day following, and the results must be published.

The five members of the council or commission have a right to vote on every question brought before it, and the affirmative vote of at least three is necessary to pass any resolution or ordinance. On every vote the law requires the yeas and nays are called and recorded. The mayor has no power to veto any measure passed by the council.

The executive and administrative powers, authority and duties are divided among five departments. These are the department of public affairs, department of accounts and finance, department of public safety, department of streets and public improvements and department of parks and public property. The mayor presides over the department of public affairs, and one councilman presides over each of the other departments, the designation to be made by the council at its first meeting after the election.

Every ordinance, franchise and contract, it is provided, must be open to public inspection seven days before its final passage, and all franchises to public service corporations must be submitted to a vote of the people for approval.

The council also appoints a civil service commission of three members, and it holds examinations upon the basis of which all appointments of city employees are to be made. The law on this point is designed to substitute personal merit for political pull in securing and holding positions as city employees.

The law also provides that if the council does not pass needed legislation the voters can petition the council. After a petition signed by 25 per cent of the voters, asking for a certain ordinance, has been filed the council can pass the ordinance or submit it at an election to the people. If the council passes an ordinance which is not satisfactory a protest can be made by a similar procedure to that provided for asking for a new ordinance.

In the east Buffalo is one of the cities that may try this form of government. The Buffalo charter revision plan provides for the nomination by petition and election at large by a simple majority every four years of four councilmen and a mayor to be the responsible heads of the city government. The council is empowered to fill any vacancy that may occur in it between municipal elections.

The proposed municipal ballot is a novelty. The bill provides that any candidate receiving a majority of the first choice vote shall be declared elected. If no candidate receives such a majority, then the second choice vote shall be added, and the candidates receiving a majority of the aggregate of such votes shall be entitled to the offices. If none of the candidates should have received a majority, then the third choice votes are added, and the candidates receiving the highest number of first, second and third choice votes get their certificates of election.

Plans For Great State Park

MRS. HARRIMAN.

WHEN the late E. H. Harriman broke down last summer there was considerable talk of his overworking, and he was harshly criticized by many all over the country who declared that he thought more of making money than he did of his health. Mr. Harriman did overwork. He often put in eighteen and twenty hours a day, with hardly a moment's rest, but not so frequently for more wealth and power, as many believed. As a matter of fact, the railway wizard was planning numerous projects to benefit his fellow men and even on his deathbed requested his wife to carry out one of these as soon as possible. This was the creation of one of the greatest state parks in the world, the plans for which were recently announced by Mrs. Harriman.

This park will include more than fifty square miles of land. It will extend about sixty-three miles along the west bank of the Hudson river and many miles out into the Ramapo hills adjacent to the Harriman home. Beginning at Fort Lee, N. J., opposite the northern end of Manhattan Island, the central borough of Greater New York, the park will reach to Newburg, N. Y., sixty miles above the northern limits of New York city. It will include nearly all the picturesque Palisades of the Hudson and all the Highlands of the Hudson fronting the river.

In addition, $1,000,000 in cash is offered by the estate of the noted financier and $1,625,000 by wealthy residents of New York and Philadelphia, with Messrs. J. Pierpont Morgan and John D. Rockefeller heading the private subscriptions with half a million each.

The state is asked to contribute $2,500,000 more, and it is believed that through condemnation proceedings the $5,000,000 thus provided will be sufficient to buy the 25,000 acres which the interstate Palisade park commission considers necessary to round out the Harriman grants and to continue the park and the proposed highways as far north as Newburg.

It is a project worthy of the brain of one who conceived the binding of continents together with great systems of transportation, and had he lived he himself would have been active today in carrying out this gigantic plan.

SOLDIERS' MONUMENT, FORT LEE.

Mr. Harriman thought not in terms of tomorrow and next year, but he was considering the needs of the metropolitan district for decades and half centuries. He foresaw that within a few years a population of 10,000,000 of people might be congregated within the boundaries of the still greater New York and that where are now meadows and woods would be densely populated regions or miles of factories and storehouses. There came before his vision a solidly built region in which, unless there were speedy intervention on the part of the state, there would be hardly tree or shrub or any prospect of nature which the toiling masses might enjoy.

This great Hudson preserve will assure recreation and fresh air for the future denizens of New York. The 10,000 acre gift includes part of the great Harriman estate of Arden, in Orange and Rockland counties, which was acquired piece by piece. In order to have the preserve connect with the Palisade park system the state will have to buy land through which there will be travel to the Hudson.

Not only New York may be congratulated over the acquisition of such a park, but the entire country as well, preserving as it will so many historic spots of interest to the whole nation, and in a sense it will belong to all the people of the United States, any of whom may enjoy its privileges when visiting the city. From Fort Lee to Newburg the course is dotted with places where history has been made. An American force under General Nathaniel Greene garrisoned Fort Lee until Nov. 20, 1776, when Lord Cornwallis, with 5,000 redcoats, advanced upon the patriots and compelled them to evacuate.

TO KEEP BOYS ON THE FARM.

Novel Experiment to Improve Country Life in Virginia.

With the co-operation of the United States department of agriculture, Superintendent of Public Instruction J. D. Eggleston, Jr., recently launched the first practical movement looking to the end advocated by writers and speakers during the last few years of keeping the Virginia boys on the farms of the commonwealth.

Mr. Eggleston's plan, which he communicated to twenty division school superintendents, contemplates the selection of two to six boys from each of two to ten schools in each county. These boys are to be given the use of an acre of land by parents, are to be aided by the government demonstrators and are to receive instruction from their teachers. It is suggested that after the crop is gathered exhibits or fairs be held in each county and prizes offered for the best showing. Corn growing alone is contemplated this year.

The plan is briefly as follows:

The boys, who must be regular attendants in the public schools, are to be chosen by the superintendents. Each boy selected shall have on his home place one acre of land. On this acre, which is not to be the best acre nor the worst, but an average one, the boy is to raise a crop of corn under the definite instruction of the government demonstrator, assisted by the teacher. He is to bind himself to follow carefully the instructions laid down by the demonstration agents through their circulars and bulletins.

The superintendents are instructed to select not less than two nor more than ten schools in the county, preferably of the consolidated type, in which to begin. The work is not to be attempted at any school where the teacher cannot or will not take hold of it with sympathy and determination. In each of the schools there are to be selected from two to six boys who are willing to take up the work during the year.

No boy is to be chosen whose parent or guardian will not permit him to have the acre of land, either free or rented at a reasonable rent by the boy, to cultivate as directed and to own all the products of his labor when the crop is gathered.

NEW THEORIES OF SLEEP.

Professor Wenley Says Blood Goes to the Brain and Extremities.

An outline of the results of experiments that have been conducted in the University of Michigan with the object of solving the mysteries of sleep was recently made public by Professor R. M. Wenley.

According to his statement, one long accepted theory is overturned. It has been accepted as a fact that the loss of consciousness was due to a lessened flow of blood to the brain. Professor Wenley says his experiments show that the size or volume of the brain increases when the individual goes to sleep and decreases when he awakens, and the same is true of the hands and feet. It was noted that in some cases the brain became smaller at first and then increased as sleep became deeper.

One of the delicate devices used recorded a "breathing wave" from the brain and hands and feet. The fall of circulation corresponded very closely to an inspiration and rise to an expiration.

OPERA BY WIRELESS.

Guests of a Telephone Inventor Enjoy an Unusual Experience.

Opera by wireless telephone was heard at the Coliseum in Chicago the other night during the electrical show. A small party of electrical men, guests of Frederick Collins, the inventor, heard the first act of "Il Trovatore" as presented at the Great Northern and later some of the numbers on the program of the Boston Opera company at the Auditorium.

A representative of Mr. Collins had placed a portable transmission on the two stages, and every one in the little party at the Coliseum distinctly heard the voices of the singers, both in ensemble and in solos. Mr. Collins asserted that without the interference of the maze of metallic wires and braces in the electrical show the success of the test would have been even more satisfactory.

Colony of Former Lunatics.

Former inmates of the Government Hospital For the Insane at Washington are living together on the "community of interest" plan somewhere in the national capital. The knowledge that such a colony exists came to the police through the recent disappearance from the hospital of a Mrs. Whalen, to whom was given permission to visit an aunt in the city, but who failed to return to the institution at the appointed hour in the evening. Inquiry at the home of the aunt brought out the information that Mrs. Whalen probably was with friends, former inmates of the hospital, who were living together somewhere in the northwest portion of the city. The place is being sought by the police.

To Hunt With Falcon and Goshawk.

Richard Bowring of Ramsgate, England, falconer for Paul J. Rainey, recently arrived at New York with a falcon and a goshawk, which Mr. Rainey purposes using for hunting at his home in New Albany, Miss. Mr. Bowring said that so far as he knew falcons or goshawks had never been used in the United States and that he was introducing a new "sport." Falcons are used to catch grouse, partridges and the like, while the goshawks are to hunt the hare, rabbit and other ground animals.

Views of The French Disaster

WHILE hundreds of columns have been published about the great disaster in France from floods, the illustrations now reaching this country give one, of course, a far better idea of the appalling conditions over there when the Seine and other rivers overflowed their banks. The scenes during the calamity were startling, to say the least, especially in the lower sections, where the water rose above the roofs of houses in some places, drowning hundreds and destroying millions of dollars' worth of property.

The scenes at night in Paris during the disaster presented a weird spectacle, soldiers, sailors, firemen and police working by the light of campfires and torches constructing temporary walls to keep out the invading floods, while pickets patrolled the sections of the city in darkness.

In the outskirts and in the inundated regions above and below the city the greatest distress still prevails, despite the efforts toward relief and the prodigious distribution of food supplies. Hundreds of persons are found on the verge of starvation, and thousands who lost everything must be aided for months. It is estimated that more than 250,000 persons have been affected by the floods. Freezing temperatures adds to the misery of the unfortunates.

Every civilized country in the world has offered aid for the victims, and France has appropriated large sums for the sufferers. The relief fund raised in this country, which amounts to a large sum, comes from every section of America, the French colonies in the large cities subscribing liberally. In Paris, in addition to the regular establishment of the Red Cross and other relief societies, public spirited citizens have thrown open their buildings and upon their own initiative transformed them into hospitals. Many seminaries left vacant since the properties passed to the state have been equipped as hospitals and temporary homes for refugees, in some cases beds being set up in the cellars of the churches.

President Fallieres has given a large sum for the relief fund, and Marquis de Vogue, Count d'Haussonville, the Duke de Camastra, Count d'Harcourt and other representatives of the noblity of France are devoting all of their time to the work of relief. The women of the Societe des Femmes de France, which is a Republican organization as distinguished from the Societe des Dames Francaises, have entered the hospitals as nurses. Mgr. Amette, archbishop of Paris, is personally directing the work of the Catholic clergy and charitable orders. The municipal council has adopted the suggestion of presenting medals to those who have been conspicuous in the rescue work.

FARMER'S WIFE HAD HEAP TO DO

Mrs. Shepherd Was in Bad Shape When She Could Not Stand on Her Feet.

Durham, N. C.—"I am a farmer's wife," writes Mrs. J. M. Shepherd, of this city, "and have a heap to do."

"Four months ago I could not stand on my feet, to do anything much, but at this time I do the most of my work. I took Cardui and it did me more good than all the doctors."

"You don't know how I thank you for the Cardui Home Treatment. I wish that all women who suffer from womanly trouble would treat themselves as I have."

Ladies can easily treat themselves at home, with Cardui, the woman's tonic. It is easy to take, and so gentle in its action, that it cannot do anything but good.

Being composed exclusively of vegetable ingredients, Cardui cannot lay up trouble in your system, as mineral drugs often do. Its ingredients having no harsh, medicinal effects, and being non-poisonous and perfectly harmless, Cardui is absolutely safe for young and old.

Ask your druggist. He will tell you to try Cardui.

HARTJE CASE REOPENED

Wife of Paper King Now Asking For a Divorce at Pittsburgh.

Pittsburg, March 7.—Augustus Hartje, the paper king who was some years since refused a divorce from his beautiful wife, Mary Scott Hartje, is in turn being sued by his wife for divorce. The case was opened today. Hartje is many times a millionaire and is said to have spent more than a million dollars in his suit trying to prove his beautiful wife had been too friendly with Tom Madine and Clifford Hooe, coachmen. Mrs. Hartje sues for a legal separation with as much alimony as the court cares to give to her.

ONE TERM ONLY

SAMUEL HUNSUCKER

OF DRIFTWOOD TOWNSHIP

Candidate for Clerk of the Jackson Circuit Court

Subject to the Democratic voters of Jackson county at their Primary Election, Friday, March 11, 1910.

I shall make One Term Only the paramount issue, believing this is an opportune time for the Democrats of Jackson county to establish this precedent as to the County Clerk's office.

At the present ratio only one man in 100 can hold office in eight years. On the one-term theory this ratio will be raised to one out of fifty.

This should especially appeal to the young Democrats of Jackson county and the old voters owe it to their posterity to help establish this principle.

This reform once established the better the opportunities of the young Democrats of the county to be elected to some of the offices to which they are entitled.

Four years ago I was a candidate for Clerk on the "One Term Only" platform, and although I was only out two weeks I received such a substantial vote, and I found so much sentiment in favor of the "One Term" proposition, that I have again decided to enter the race for Clerk, upon the same issue, as none of the present candidates for this office have taken it up.

This will give the Democracy of Jackson county an opportunity to establish this precedent, which should hereafter be their motto. I appeal to the democracy in general to assist in establishing a custom that is universally acknowledged to be fair and just.

As all the candidates for Clerk are making the race for the first term and as I am the only one of the four making the race on this issue, therefore, I am the only candidate for this office for whom you can vote in favor of the one term theory.

I earnestly solicit your support and influence in my behalf to help bring about this reform in the party.

Yours for Democracy and the establishment of the above principle.

BOYCOTT IS A TRUMP CARD

Philadelphia Merchants Begin to Complain.

SQUEEZE PUT ON BY UNIONS

Merchants Who Sell Goods to Transit Company or Its Loyal Employees Find a Falling Off in Their Sales That They Do Not Like—By Order of Labor Leaders Violence on the Part of Strike Sympathizers Has Been Discontinued—Rumor That Federal Government May Send Regulars to the Scene of Trouble.

Philadelphia, March 8.—To every labor union man in Philadelphia orders have been sent not to patronize stores that sell supplies to the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company or its employees. The union laborers have played one of their trump cards—a boycott. They have estimated that they can deprive the merchants of this city of $1,000,000 worth of business a day and that they can force the business interests of the city to take their side in the fight if the pressure is maintained long enough and severely enough. Every kind of mercantile institution has been affected by the boycott, even in this early stage. Saloon keepers are complaining that their bars are banned because they have sold beer to the loyal employees of the P. R. T. Storekeepers in Kensington, Germantown, Frankford and other centers of the strike have been hurt sorely. Their business has fallen off.

Although the main districts were crowded yesterday with men who stood on the corners and jeered the P. R. T. operatives and the police, they did not lay a hand to a brick or shove a bluecoat. After the decision of the mayor and his advisers to arrest the labor union leaders who are responsible for the present conditions, the leaders hurriedly sent word to their lieutenants in command of the strikers to keep their men peaceful and to discourage any rioting. The result showed, in the opinion of the city officials, that the leaders can prevent disorder if they have a mind to.

It came straight from the city hall that another outbreak of rioting will mean the execution of warrants against the committee of ten of the Central Labor Union and other leaders who are directing the big strike. The mayor did not issue the order of arrests, hoping that a few days more would see the disintegration of the strike, and that it would not be necessary to take drastic steps. The city officials and merchants agree that a sympathetic strike need alarm nobody so long as rioting is kept down.

The news that most interested Philadelphians was that a detachment of federal troops might be sent here to protect government property. The Pennsylvania railroad sent a special train to Fort Dupont with orders to keep steam up and be ready to transport troops at an instant's notice. Messages to Washington brought no confirmation of the report that federal troops would come, but on the other hand, no one at the war department made a specific denial that an order had been issued.

Although there are 40,000 men or more on strike, only a few trades have been seriously affected. Hardly a factory is in operation in Kensington, the center of the textile trade. The textile workers form almost half of the actual number of strikers. Building operations are at a standstill, it being estimated now that 5,000 members of the allied building trades are on strike. The tailors form the next largest body. But the Central Labor Union has failed to spread trouble as widely as it hoped. The musicians failed to quit. The union leaders hoped to close the theaters. They have not. The stage hands and the theater mechanics, as well as electricians, thought the matter over and notified the managers that they would not break their agreements. A score of unions, minor in point of membership, disappointed the union bosses. The waiters, for instance, kept on the job. Although the taxicab drivers quit, it is still possible to hire a conveyance. Milk is still being delivered at the usual hours and the bartenders continue to mix the festive cocktail.

TO TIE UP STATE

All Union Laborers in Pennsylvania May Go Out.

Pittsburg, March 8.—Within the next forty-eight hours, if Pittsburg labor leaders can effect it, all union workmen in the state of Pennsylvania will be ordered to stop work in sympathy with the striking streetcar men of Philadelphia. President William Kelly of the Iron City Central Trades council set the movement on foot, and he is backed by Business Agent J. J. Thorpe of Division 85, Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railroad Employees of America, in charge of the Pittsburg district.

Kelly says: "I am in favor of a general strike over the entire state and will so urge. The Philadelphia strikers have the sympathy of the laboring men in all parts of the country, and I feel sure that if a vote was taken for a general strike throughout the state there would not be a dissenting vote."

Thorpe said: "The union men will fight for the preservation of the labor movement, and a general strike throughout the state will be the result."

President W. D. Mahon of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees of America, with District Organizer Pratt of Philadelphia, spent some hours in conference with labor leaders in Pittsburg seeking to immediately stop every car in Pennsylvania. Mahon and Pratt appeared before the state Federation of Labor convention at New Castle today to urge an immediate general strike.

TO KEEP THEM IDLE

Millionaire "Hobo" Will Take Charge of Philadelphia's Unemployed.

St. Louis, March 8.—James Eads How, the millionaire "hobo," who has organized the unemployed into the National Unemployed association, has been requested to go to Philadelphia to take charge of the unemployed there and prevent their being used to break the general strike of labor unions. This request came in a telegram from Charles Ferguson, jr., son of Mrs. Georgia Ferguson of Washington, D. C., president of the national committee of the unemployed. How replied that he would leave this week. He says the unemployed are affiliated with the labor unions and that the two bodies are working together.

Boots and Saddles For Company K.

New York, March 8.—It was said at Governor's Island today that one company of regulars, Company K, was under orders to be ready instantly to take a train for Philadelphia in case it became necessary to protect government property there. All leaves of absence have been cancelled so Company K will be ready for any emergency.

RACE WAR IN FLORIDA LEADS TO BLOODSHED

Five Victims of Clash in Manatee County.

Tampa, Fla., March 8.—As the result of a clash between a white man, Sam Stribling, and John Ellis, negro, two whites are dead, Joe Ellis, a negro, has been lynched, and J. B. Morgan, white, mortally wounded. John Ellis is being pursued through the woods in Manatee county by a sheriff's posse which has bloodhounds on the trail, and if Ellis is caught he will probably be killed.

Ellis had a dispute at Palmetto with Stribling about wages. Stribling drew a gun and pointed it at Ellis, who took it from him and shot him three times in the breast.

Sheriff Wyatt telephoned to Deputy Sheriff Mathews to bring the hounds. As Mathews came to town he met Ellis and called upon him to halt. Ellis shot at him. Later Ellis and his brother were cornered in a hut in the woods and they shot Mathews dead. They then got away in the woods. Guards at the Little Manatee bridge near Willow, tried to stop the men as they came by, with the result that J. B. Morgan was shot in the head and will die. Deputy Sheriff Burnett was slightly wounded.

Burnett wounded Joe Ellis and then tied him to a tree. Later a crowd of men from the country shot the negro dead.

SAYS SHE'S PLATT'S WIDOW

Omaha Woman Persists in Declaration That She Was Legally Married

Omaha, March 8.—Declaring that she will immediately put in a claim to be recognized as the widow of Thomas C. Platt of New York, who died Sunday night, Mae C. Wood says: "Unless in his will Mr. Platt has made proper arrangements for maintaining me as his widow, I shall do everything possible to prevent the probate of that instrument."

"I shall immediately go to New York and make a personal demand upon his son that I be placed in possession of Mr. Platt's affairs until the will is read. By possession I mean the actual physical possession of his personal and other property. Of course, if the will does not give me the right to continue in such possession, I will then fight for the property. But I do not expect Frank Platt to let me get in control."

"I am absolutely sure that somewhere in Mr. Platt's private papers will be found proofs that I was legally married to him. I want to get hold of that, or at least, I want some just, upright man to secure the papers. Whenever they are produced in court, my troubles will be over."

Negotiating a Settlement.

Pittsburg, March 8.—A continuance of one month has been granted in the suit for legal separation instituted by Mrs. Mary Scott Hartje against her husband, Augustus Hartje, the paper king, it being understood that negotiations for a settlement now will be consummated.

Paris, March 8.—The first collision between aeroplanes in flight occurred at Mourmelon. Frey, while driving a biplane, dashed into one piloted by Captain Moreau. Both machines were badly smashed and fell, but neither of the aviators was hurt.

TUESDAY, MARCH 8, 1910

The Indianapolis Sun comes out in a new dress and very much improved in every respect. There is room in Indianapolis for such a paper as Rudolph G. Leeds, the new owner, says he proposes to make of the Sun.

As soon as that raid was made at Brownstown and some plain violations of the law were uncovered, there were some people who began to apologize for those who violated the law and criticize those who caught them at it. But why apologize for and offer excuses for men who knew they were breaking the law of their state? Men who are in their right minds are expected to be obedient citizens and no apology is due.

Announcement.

Fernando W. Wesner, of Jackson township, authorizes his announcement as a candidate for Prosecuting Attorney of the Fortieth Judicial Circuit, composed of the counties of Jackson and Scott, subject to the democratic voters thereof. d&w-tf

Trial Stops Work.

Paoli, Ind., March 8.—Work on improvements on Taggart's French Lick hotel to cost $150,000 has been suspended and sixty-five men employed on them discharged. The men were told that nothing more would be done for a while, and it is understood that if the trial of the suit to annul the charter of the French Lick hotel company goes against the company the proposed improvement will be permanently abandoned.

John Goldsborough, who was employed by the O. & M., here years ago, came in Monday evening to renew acquaintances with old friends and attend the regular meeting of Jackson Lodge, No. 146, F. & A. M., of which he is a member.

EVADING THE ISSUE

Democrats Do Not Want Any Discussion of the Liquor Question.

[Special Correspondence.]

Indianapolis, March 8.—Thomas Taggart, who came up from French Lick to superintend and oversee the secret Denison hotel meeting of Taggart men which set the Democratic state convention for April 27, did not wish for any discussion of issues or platform planks, and Chairman Stokes Jackson very promptly shut off argument on the subject of temperance and the liquor question. Democrats who work with Mr. Taggart do not desire that the local option question shall enter into the campaign. They hope to make a fight in 1910 outside the issue of the right of the voter to say what liquor policy shall govern in his home county. While the Taggart crowd hopes to carry the legislature and in that way bring about the repeal of the county option law, it is not the policy of the Taggart organization to publish this little matter to the world just now. It is said that the Payne-Aldrich tariff law will be the center of Democratic attack. Republicans say that this narrows the proposition down to the question of the ability of the Democrats to frame a better tariff law than the Republicans and it is the general feeling that the Democratic record will not help Democrats win votes on the tariff proposition.

E. M. Lee, chairman of the Republican state committee, has appeared on "the works" at Indianapolis and is expected to be here most of the time until after the Republican state convention, which will be held on April 5. Mr. Lee's headquarters are in Room 222 at the Claypool hotel, and later he will take additional rooms at the hotel. He expects to keep in close touch with the chairmen of the districts and counties, and after the selection of the state ticket he will begin the campaign. Mr. Lee also expects to personally visit many of the counties of the state to ascertain the political conditions therein. John F. Hayes, secretary of the state committee, has resigned as secretary to Senator Beveridge. He is now on duty at the headquarters. Mr. Hayes will be busy until the close of the campaign. Mr. Lee and Mr. Hayes expect to install a card index system by which they will have the name, address and political affiliations of every man in Indiana.

In view of the fact that Thomas Taggart controls the state organization, body and breeches, and appurtenances thereunto belonging, including suspenders, the French Lick hotel gambling cases at Paoli are attracting attention among Republicans. This is doubly true in view of the fact that Mr. Taggart is an avowed candidate for the United States senatorship, in the event he succeeds, with the aid of his willing organization, in carrying the legislature his way. Mr. Taggart's session at Paoli as a witness in the famous suit to forfeit the charter of his hotel company because of flagrant violations of the law in the celebrated French Lick "casino," is regarded by Republicans as pretty good political capital for use this year. It is conceded all over Indiana that anti-Taggart Democrats overlooked a good chance this year when they yielded to Taggart control.

Republicans of the Fifth district will hold their congressional convention some time this month. The date has not yet been announced. Roy Shattuc, former mayor of Brazil, and Frank Tilley, of Terre Haute, are the candidates for the nomination. Both are comparatively young men.

It is suggested in some quarters that Senator Beveridge ought to sound the keynote of the Republican state convention, and to this end a movement is on to make the senior senator permanent chairman of the state convention, April 5. It is not known how Senator Beveridge would look at this sort of a proposition, and it is intimated that he might decline to act, preferring that some other Republican share the honors of the occasion.

By way of making Republican harmony easier and more complete, it is said that Judge John F. Neal, of Hamilton county, formerly mentioned as a possible candidate for the Ninth district Republican congressional nomination, will prepare for the printer the announcement which puts Edward Everett Neal, of Noblesville, before the public as a congressional aspirant. It is now predicted that E. E. Neal will have a solid Hamilton county at his back when convention time comes.

George B. Lockwood, of Marion, is being quoted as saying that he will permit others to take places on the state and congressional tickets if he may be allowed to appear on the resolutions committee at the Republican state convention to represent the Eleventh district. Mr. Lockwood is a strong and open fighter for county option, and it is known in advance that he would stand out for a reaffirmation of the last state platform of Republicans.

Judge Vinson Carter, of the Marion superior court, says he will not make the race for a Republican nomination for supreme judge this year. He announces that if his friends so desire, they may get behind him at the proper time and assist in boosting him once more into the place he now holds on the superior bench.

Excitement Subsides.

Scotland Neck, N. C., March 7.—Conditions have become normal in this town after the high excitement which followed the shooting on the main thoroughfare here of State Senator E. L. Travis of Halifax, Assemblyman A. P. Kitchin, brother of Governor Kitchin and Representative Kitchin of North Carolina, and Chief of Police C. W. Dunn, by E. E. Powell, sr.,

MARKED BY FIGHTING

The Elwood Strike Situation Still Far From Settlement.

Elwood, Ind., March 8.—Riots among the tin plate workers and strike sympathizers are becoming so frequent here that the citizens and police fear murder may result at any time. There have been four fierce demonstrations in the last thirty-six hours. Albert Lewis, brother of William Lewis, ex-city treasurer, was followed home and escaped violence by barricading himself in his home. Charles Lewis came to his brother's rescue and immediately engaged in a fierce contest with Edward Davis, a striker. Lewis was badly beaten. Davis threw him in the gutter and chewed the end of Lewis's nose almost off. A free-for-all fight followed in which broken heads, battered noses and black eyes played a prominent part.

Ends Life by Hanging.

Connersville, Ind., March 8.—The Rev. Thomas E. Smiley, aged forty-four, minister and author, hanged himself in the barn at the home of his brother-in-law, County Commissioner Lorenzo D. Springer. Worry over the death of his wife, together with overwork on his last charge, is the supposed cause.

Force of Disastrous Explosion Was Felt at Hammond, Distant Five Miles, and at South Chicago—Fire Departments From These Cities Helped Avert Conflagration—Two Men Were Killed and About Thirty Hurt When Dry Powder in Maize Plant Let Go.

Hammond, Ind., March 8.—Explosion of dry starch powder at the plant of the American Maize Products company at Roby probably killed two men, injured twenty-eight others, two fatally, wrecked a three-story building and broke windows in South Chicago and Hammond, three and five miles away. Fire followed the explosion, but fire companies from this city and South Chicago confined the flames to the wrecked building. Thirteen of the twenty-eight men injured are in the South Chicago hospital. Ten were taken to their homes. Two are missing and their bodies are believed to lie under the debris.

NATURAL GAS OUTLOOK

Indiana Supervisor Reports That It Is Still Promising.

Indianapolis, March 8.—Bryce Kinney, state gas supervisor, whose annual report has been filed with the governor, declares in the report that 1910 will see great things for the southwestern part of the state in the matter of oil and gas development. Mr. Kinney has made a special study of this part of the state recently, and reports every indication of rapid development. He found, he said, that franchises and contracts have been obtained by prospectors for providing light and heat for various cities in the southwestern part of the state. As a further indication of the progress being made, he found that prospectors are drilling a chain of wells from Vincennes to Rockport in an effort to locate the connecting link between the Illinois and the Kentucky oil fields. One of these wells, he said, has been completed, and is now producing oil and gas under satisfactory pressure.

Mr. Kinney says that the assertion that natural gas in Indiana as a fuel is a thing of the past is without foundation. A visit to the natural gas fields, where he found the pressure sufficient and increasing gradually, he reported, would show that Indiana natural gas as a fuel is far from being a mediocre thing. He predicts that the southwestern Indiana field, and the field lying southeast of Indianapolis, will continue for years to be of great industrial value.

BUILDING A STONE FENCE.

Connecticut Farmer Tells How to Utilize Boulders That Are In the Way.

One of the most picturesque sights in New England is the stone wall fence. The utilization of loose stones, which otherwise encumber the ground, for the construction of barriers necessary to farm life used to be a leading industry in New England before the advent of the barbed wire fence. Even now many farmers extend their stone fences just to get rid of the rocks. And there are plenty of rocks in other parts of the country that can be used to the same useful purpose.

Here, however, is a brave farmer, F. H. Plumb of Tolland county, Conn., who goes further than picking up and piling stones. He believes in breaking up boulders and using the fragments for fence material. Says Mr. Plumb:

An occasional boulder here and there in a level, fertile field ought not to dishearten any robust, enthusiastic farmer from breaking them up and clearing them away. Dynamite, a sledge, a few chains and a steady yoke of oxen or team of horses will work wonders in a short time in many a field.

A knowledge of rocks, however, will prove of great assistance before work of any kind with them is undertaken. Some are apparently as hard as flint; others so soft they can almost be crushed between the fingers. Some have a grain similar to a log so they may be split by wedges and half rounds quite straight and true. Others will hammer or split into all sorts of forms and sizes. But there are few stones a stone mason cannot trim into any form he desires.

If we closely examine a boulder, say, three to six feet long, we may notice it has a grain its entire length and all the way through.

I noticed my stonemason would take a drill twelve inches long and three-quarters of an inch in diameter and, with a two or three pound hammer mounted on a twenty inch handle, drill a hole six inches deep in the boulder in a few minutes, depending on the hardness of the stone. Then along the same seam of the rock another hole was drilled, and perhaps another and another, these holes being about six inches apart.

Half rounds and a wedge were then inserted in each hole, the wedges gently started, and then the entire length of wedges driven home evenly by means of a twelve pound sledge. With this treatment the big hard rocks seemed to generally split evenly and straight through. If they did not, after the rock was split a few heavy blows with the big sledge would knock off any protruding pieces.

But there is a knack in knocking a stone to pieces or trimming the stone with the side of a sledge hammer or of its cutting edge that takes time, thought and observation to acquire.

My job was this: Extending easterly along the roadway from my house was an old tumble down wall that was the most unsightly place to my family on the entire farm. The land inside the wall is about ideal for a rank growth of timothy, and plenty of stones of all sizes, from a pebble to enormous boulders, were there.

The smaller boulders, such as a yoke of cattle could draw on a stone boat, and all the smaller stones the boys and myself had picked off after the plowing of the past three springs and hauled along the wall. Of course this made the old wall look even worse than before, and all sorts of weeds and brush began to grow up among it.

As the wall lay, it was made up of stones of all sizes, many so big they had to be split or broken and used as foundation pieces before work could be begun.

Ordinarily for a new wall a strip is plowed and dug out just below the frost line. As my wall was only to be rebuilt this was unnecessary, for I had a good foundation.

My wall was laid with a straight face on the road side, while on the field side rough cobbles without a straight face were set up at a slant of about one foot to the four foot wall.

In no part of the wall were the stones just thrown or dumped in. Every stone was placed one at a time, no matter how small, and so placed that it rested firmly on its base, with as little tipping or looseness as possible.

A wall put up in this careful manner ought to last several generations.

Record Corn Yield.

In a corn growing contest in North Carolina 227 bushels were grown on one acre. It is believed that this breaks official records in this country.

POWER CONCRETE MIXER.

Homemade Device That Is Useful on the Farm.

Of interest to farmers who need cement for any purpose, such as laying floors or walks or making posts, is a bulletin issued by the Colorado experiment station which tells of mixing concrete by machinery and prints the accompanying illustration of a homemade mixer, which is described thus:

Two pieces of 4 by 6 form the sills. Upon these two, uprights about three feet high are fastened. A one and one-half inch pipe passes through holes bored in the top of the uprights. Upon this pipe the mixing box is turned, and through the pipe the water is added to the mixture at the desired time. The water is poured in at the top of the upright pipe and flows down and out through holes which are drilled in the lower side of it. The other end of the pipe is closed by a wooden plug.

POWER CONCRETE MIXER.

The ends of the box are made of pieces of 2 by 8 bolted together. A hole bored in the center of each end forms the bearings. The sides of the box are made of one inch lumber and are simply nailed to the ends with twelvepenny nails. One-half of the box is made so that it can be detached and lifted off when the mixer is to be filled or emptied. The detachable half is secured to the other half by means of strong hooks so placed that by slipping this half about an inch to one side all of the hooks are loosened at once. After it is in position the removable portion is held in place by means of a barn door latch.

The driving gear is simple, but very effective. It consists of the rim taken from the wheel of an old rubber tire buggy. With the tire removed the grooved rim makes a very satisfactory wheel upon which to run a three-quarter inch rope belt. The belt is driven by a small sheave pulley, which is fastened to the countershaft. A belt tightener is used upon the rope, and by using a very loose belt the tightener is made to act as a friction clutch. This particular mixer is driven by a two horse gasoline engine, which is belted to the countershaft. The engine runs continuously, and the mixer is started and stopped by means of the belt tightener.

Many other systems of driving might have been used in place of the rope belt. The main gear of an old self binder makes an excellent gear for a mixer. An old mower gear may also be put to good use in this connection. It is not necessary to have the mixer driven by an engine or horse power. A crank may be attached and the machine turned by hand. Many prefer turning such a machine rather than mixing the concrete with a shovel.

CITY MEN FOR FARMS.

Many Would Make Good Hired Hands if They Had Chance.

Many farmers throughout the country find it a difficult matter to get hired hands, while in the great cities there are thousands of men out of work. The problem of inducing some of the down and outs of city life to go out on the farms is claiming the attention of social students.

A commission of the New York legislature recently has been making an inquiry into the matter, though it has not taken up the subject exhaustively. John Mitchell, the noted labor leader, was present at one of the sessions and made suggestions.

The chief trouble seems to be that those in the cities who are always deep in poverty know nothing of country life, seldom if ever having seen the green fields. They were born to their conditions and knew nothing else.

Thousands of these men, no doubt, if they should be taken out and given jobs on farms would return to the city as soon as they earned money enough. That is because the city sights and sounds have become second nature to them. They would pine for the filth and furore of their native element.

But, on the other hand, there is no doubt that many men in the cities would welcome a chance to get away to the country for themselves and their families and would develop into excellent farm hands. The problem is to put these men in touch with farmers who need them.

Diseases of Fowls.

Most of the diseases that afflict fowls are the result of carelessness and indifference on the part of the owner as regards the surroundings and conditions of his poultry. No poultry will show to advantage on the credit side of the cash account unless they are healthy and well cared for. How to prevent disease should be the watchword rather than how to cure disease.

Beef and Dairy Cattle.

When a dairyman has faced the actual practice of selling cows from his herd for beef he will not feel encouraged over the outlook of combining beef and dairy qualities in the same herd. There is a popular prejudice against eating beef from an old, played out dairy cow, and there is no advantage in trying to combine the two qualities in one animal.

FIGHTING POTATO CANCER.

Canada Sends Warning Dreaded European Scourge Has Crossed Sea.

The serious potato blight known as "black scab," "wart disease" and "potato cancer," which has ravaged the potato fields of Europe for thirteen years, has appeared on the American continent, in Newfoundland. Farmers in the United States are warned to look out for it and to make every effort to stamp it out at the first sign of its appearance. The extraordinary rapidity with which the potato cancer has spread over nearly the whole of Europe and the virulence of the disease combine to make the Canadian department of agriculture fearful lest the infected seed, imported from across the sea to Newfoundland, should find its way southward and give the cancer a foothold on lower Canadian and American soil.

This disease, wherever it is permitted to establish itself, makes the successful cultivation of potatoes extremely difficult. There is said to be no hope of saving a crop that is once attacked. Moreover, when a crop is destroyed by this blight the ground remains infected, so that for at least six years it is impossible to grow a crop of potatoes.

Where the disease is prevalent practically no healthy tubers will develop. The tubers, when lifted, show signs of various degrees of injury. Some appear on casual examination to be sound. But the "eyes" of the tubers should be carefully examined. Those are the places where the disease is first noticeable. The eyes of affected tubers show an abnormal development of the dormant shoot. A careful untrained observer can easily recognize the presence of the disease in this stage. At the same time it is in this condition that the disease is most likely to escape detection and to be spread by means of infected tubers used for seed. In the earlier stages of the disease the eyes will be found to be slightly protruding in the form of a single or compound group of small nodules varying from the size of a pin's head to that of a pea.

When a grower finds his crop attacked he may hesitate to destroy potatoes which appear sound or but little affected, although total destruction would be the best means of preventing the spread of the disease, yet those tubers may be collected, boiled and be fed to pigs. Under no circumstances should unboiled or decayed potatoes be given as food, not only because the feeding value is sure to be reduced, but mainly because the spores are still capable of germinating after passing through the body of an animal. In removing the potatoes from the field the greatest precaution should be taken to clean thoroughly and disinfect one's boots and the farm carts and implements used.

The process of disinfecting may be carried out on boards laid on the field, so that no reinfection takes place afterward. The grower should then proceed to dig a hole in the field and collect all refuse from the vines and all diseased tubers. The potato straw should be destroyed by fire, but the tubers, being too wet to burn, may be dealt with as follows: The hole that has been dug must be big enough to hold all the tubers collected. It should then be covered with a layer six inches deep of unslaked lime, then a portion of the tubers may be thrown in and covered by another layer of unslaked lime, and so on till the hole is filled. The last layer should be formed, of course, by the lime. In this manner the tubers are put out of harm's way. Under no circumstances should seed potatoes from a diseased crop be used.

PLEA FOR THE TOAD.

Indiana Entomologist Says Little Frog Eats Bad Insects.

B. W. Douglass, state entomologist for Indiana, who is the bitter foe of every insect that lives on the fruit and foliage of the state and the friend of every agent that tends to destroy such pests, is out with a plea to the farmers and gardeners to protect the American toad, or Mr. Bufo Americana, to be explicit. In making laws to protect insect eating birds, observes Mr. Douglass, no one has ever proposed to prevent legally the enthusiastic small boy from killing as many toads as he cares to. The plea will appear in the annual report from the entomological department, which has gone to the state printer and which Mr. Douglass hopes to have in the hands of a large number of farmers and gardeners by the time early spring preparations begin for the 1910 crops.

"As a matter of fact," says Mr. Douglass, "the common toad does more to rid our fields and gardens of noxious insects than many of the feathered songsters of which we hear so much. But simply that he is ugly—emphatically and most unmistakably ugly—the toad has all manner of defamation and libel heaped upon him.

"Early superstitions have charged the toad with about all the vicious qualities possible for one creature to possess. Some of these traditions, however, are of such a nature as to render the toad an individual to be avoided rather than to be sought and killed. But in spite of his ugliness the little animal is about as harmless as any we can find in our woods and fields, and as a destroyer of insects his value has been established beyond a doubt. Ninety-eight per cent of the food of the toad consists of animal matter, and of this the greater part is injurious insects."

Mr. Douglass advances the idea that farmers and gardeners should provide artificial ponds or water places in their fields and gardens where the toad may breed. The little animal possesses the home instinct and when taken from the ponds or creeks and placed in a garden or field is likely to desert his new quarters and return to the old. To obviate this Mr. Douglass believes the gardeners and farmers should provide breeding places in order to make the fields and gardens the actual home of the toads.

In addition to the good which may result from having the toads feel at home in the fields and gardens, Mr. Douglass sees another good in the hatchery idea—that of robbing the children of their propensity for slaying the toads whenever they find them. He believes that the average boy, by watching the development of the little animal through the tadpole stage to that of the adult toad, will soon have a scientific interest in the toad which will insure its life and protection. This protection, the entomologist observes, is something the farmer and gardener cannot afford to disregard in these days of constant and rapid increase of insects which prey upon farm and garden products.

OUR 1909 BUMPER CROP.

How It Would Look In Bulk Alongside a City Skyscraper.

Last year's crops in America, while not establishing a record, were considerably in excess of the previous year. The corn was the bulkier of the products. Next to corn came the production of oats with a huge total of nearly a billion bushels, while wheat came next, sufficient to supply every man, woman and child in this country with a loaf and a half of bread per day.

OUR BUMPER 1909 CROP.

The United States led the world in the production of corn.

The previous year Russia's oat production was greater, but last year's estimate was 176,000,000 bushels more for the United States than that of 1908.

Dairy Profits.

Profits in dairying do not depend so much upon the number of cows kept, but upon the kind. This fact is being realized more and more as the dairy industry increases. One way to increase the acreage of a farm is to increase the fertility of the soil of the farm. Similarly one way to increase a dairy herd is to increase the cows' producing power.

An Aged Hen.

At Hazelhurst, Mass., there was buried with appropriate ceremonies by Mrs. Miles Cannon and her children their favorite hen, Polly, seventeen years old. She was believed to be the oldest hen in the world. According to Polly's owner, she laid more than 3,000 eggs and raised thirty-five broods of chickens.

Dairy Products of France.

France possesses 50,000,000 head of cattle, worth $800,000,000, and the industries of raising them and their products, such as milk, cheese and butter, maintain about half the population of France.

PATENTS NEW HAY PRESS.

Makes Two Bales at Time and Averages Six Hundred Bales a Day.

Theodore Guidry, a resident of Church Point, La., who for many years has been interested in farming and improving the devices used by farmers, has received a patent on a new double baler hay press. This press is unique in its construction, having done away with the large springs ordinarily in use on such balers and decreased the draft to a minimum. Experiments with models have demonstrated a capacity of fifty or sixty bales an hour.

It is constructed with a baling chamber on both ends of the press and compresses the hay by a plunger working on a crank shaft past the feed box on each end. The crank shaft is connected to a beam to which one horse is hitched for power, and at each round of the horse a stroke is made on two different bales, one on each end. It is possible with this model to get a bale of any desired weight, the same being controlled by two springs attached to a movable side of the baler.

Mr. Guidry says he thinks the baler will beat anything on the market for speed and simplicity, and he is now negotiating with manufacturing companies for its construction and sale.

Orchards Worth $1,000 Per Acre.

A feature at a recent fruit show was an exhibit of Nova Scotia apples and a printed statement showing the profits of fruit growing in that province, especially in the Cornwallis and Annapolis provinces. The average estimate of cultivating, fertilizing, spraying and pruning per acre was $25, and the cost of picking and packing the fruit is estimated at 50 cents per barrel. The yield reported from eight to ten orchards shows an average for the past five years of from 100 to 165 barrels of shipping apples per acre, sold at an average price varying from $1.90 to $2.50 per barrel during the five years. The gross returns per acre range from $190 to $304 and the net returns from $117 to $219. The average net returns for all the orchards for the five years were $174 per acre, a sum sufficient to pay 15.75 per cent on $1,000. Accordingly a valuation of $1,000 per acre for these orchards seems not excessive.

Popular Plan For a Cottage.

Design 859, by Glenn L. Saxton, Architect.

PERSPECTIVE VIEW—FROM A PHOTOGRAPH.

FIRST FLOOR PLAN.

SECOND FLOOR PLAN.

This plan for a story and a half cottage has proved popular. The exterior has a very homelike appearance, and the interior is as cozy as it could be made. There is a large living room across the entire front of the house. At one end is an open fireplace faced with large dull green tile, having a heavy molded shelf with large brackets. Above are two side lights. The dining room is a little beauty. It has a beamed ceiling, built in sideboard and paneled wainscoting with burlap panels. There is no undesirable pantry, but the kitchen is well fitted up with cupboards, molding table and flour bins. Kitchen finished in ivory white enamel, and the cupboard doors are of birch stained brown. Size 26 by 28 over the main part. The trim in first story is birch stained a soft brown. In the second story the casings are of pine enamel, pure white, and the doors are of birch stained to represent mahogany. Cost to build, exclusive of heating and plumbing, $3,500.

By special arrangement with me the editor of this paper will furnish one complete set of plans and specifications of design No. 859 for $25.

SANCTION NOT GIVEN BY BOARD

Alleged Illegal Expenditures at Terre Haute.

INVESTIGATION BEING MADE

Charging That More Than $6,700 Has Been Paid Out in the Township Trustee's Office Without Official Warrant, Since the Inception of the Present Administration, Field Examiners Turn in Their Report to the Indiana State Board of Accounts.

Indianapolis, March 7.—In the report of field examiners, who have been investigating the affairs of the township for the state board of accounts, illegal payment of claims against Harrison township, Vigo county (Terre Haute), which were made without sanction of the township advisory board and some of which were made without being submitted to the board of county commissioners, is charged. The examiners, Isaiah D. Weist and E. S. Bove, filed their report with W. A. Dehority, chief of the board. It covers a period from Jan. 1, 1909, up to the present time, the administration of two trustees, one of whom died in August of last year. Both trustees are Democrats.

The report charges that $6,754.25 has been paid out illegally since the inception of the present administration. Included in the supposed illegal and unauthorized acts are a number of contracts for supplies for the township schools which were awarded, it is alleged, without formality of advertising for bids. William O. Weldele, the trustee who took office on Jan. 1 of last year and who died the following August, paid out $3,120.80 without authority from the township advisory board and for contracts which were not legally advertised, according to the report of the examiners. Afterward George Weldele was appointed to the trusteeship, and it is shown that the amount of his alleged illegal payments amounts to $3,633.45.

NEW INDIANA AUTHOR

Frederick Landis Makes a Hit With "The Glory of His Country."

Logansport, Ind., March 7.—From the volume and character of the congratulations which are pouring in upon former Congressman Frederick Landis, it is apparent to his friends here that the young author has made a distinct literary hit with his first book, "The Glory of His Country," one of the latest of the Scribner publications. This is a striking story of patriotism and self-sacrifice in the civil war and forty years afterward—a tale of deep and true quality and profound power. On account of its distinctive local color, the story is of peculiar interest to Indians and the prediction is freely made that its publication has given Mr. Landis a firm abiding place in the long and honorable list of Indiana authors.

Incidentally the story carries a scene strikingly similar to that memorable congressional convention in the Eleven, when Mr. Landis was given his first nomination after a battle which required more than a thousand ballots. The power of the tale, however, does not lie in this bit of political autobiography, nor is Philip Daniel, the young congressman around whose fortunes the story is constructed, the dominant figure. For this latter character the author has created a figure unique in Hoosier fiction; one so compelling that it might be true to life and which cannot fail to most deeply impress the reader whose memory reaches back to the war period.

FIRST IN THE FIELD

Socialists of Indiana Take Time by the Forelock.

Indianapolis, March 7.—The Socialists of Indiana Saturday night, at their state convention in Pierson hall, nominated a complete state ticket, as follows:

Secretary of State—Sherman Jones, Bedford.

Auditor of State—Russell Wytenbach, Evansville.

Treasurer of State—William Jackson, Indianapolis.

Superintendent of Public Instruction—Miss Janet Fenimore, Anderson.

Attorney General—Lamont Jones, Anderson.

Clerk of Supreme Court—Charles Arbogast, Elkhart.

State Geologist—Charles A. Fryro, Richmond.

State Statistician—Dr. J. C. Mitchell, Odon.

Noblesville Man's Fatal Fall.

Princeton, Ind., March 7.—John Melvin, chief engineer at the strawboard factory at Mt. Carmel, Ill., fell from the top of the water tank to a concrete walk, twenty feet below, and was fatally injured, his skull being crushed. He died within an hour. The breaking of a rung of the ladder caused his fall. His home was at Noblesville, Ind., where he leaves a widow and one child.

Capt. Bogardus Again Hits the Bull's Eye.

This world famous rifle shot who holds the championship record of 100 pigeons in 100 consecutive shots is living at Lincoln, Ill. Recently interviewed, he says: "I have suffered a long time with kidney and bladder trouble and have used several well known kidney medicines all of which gave me no relief until I started taking Foley's Kidney Pills. Before I used Foley's Kidney Pills I was subjected to severe backache and pains in my kidneys with suppression and oftentimes a cloudy voiding. While upon arising in the morning I would get dull headaches. Now I have taken three bottles of Foley's Kidney Pills and feel 100 per cent. better. I am never bothered with my kidneys or bladder and once more feel like my own self. All this I owe solely to Foley's Kidney Pills and always recommend them to my fellow sufferers." ### STARR J. MURPHY

Rockefeller's Personal Attorney Called Before the Senate.

INFORMATION WANTED

Senate Calls on Rockefeller's Lawyer to Tell of Philanthropist's Schemes.

Washington, March 7.—Congress wants to know just how John D. Rockefeller intends to spend his money for the benefit of humanity. The senate committee on District of Columbia affairs took up the bill to incorporate the Rockefeller Foundation, introduced Wednesday by Senator Gallinger.

The senator was unable to give any details, and after a brief discussion it was decided to invite Starr J. Murphy, one of the men named as incorporators of the foundation, to appear before the committee next Friday. Mr. Murphy has been the representative of Mr. Rockefeller in a great many of his philanthropic movements.

Rivalred Franklin.

Quick Improvement of Sweet Corn.

As a result of several years' selection Nelson S. Stone of Massachusetts reported last season sweet corn which matured nearly a week earlier than other early kinds which he had tried, and the ears were almost double the size of other early varieties. The improvement was made by choosing the earliest ears and then using those grains that grew on the middle of the cob and then still further selecting the largest and best shaped grains.

For Diseases of the Skin.

Nearly all the diseases of the skin such as eczema, tetter, salt rheum and barbers' itch, are characterized by an intense itching and smarting, which often makes life a burden and disturbs sleep and rest. Quick relief may be had by applying Chamberlain's Salve. It allays the itching and smarting almost instantly. Many cases have been cured by its use. For sale by all dealers.

THE INDIANAPOLIS NEWS

The circulation of The Indianapolis News is unique in two particulars. The paper is delivered directly into the homes of more than 94 per cent. of its subscribers; and the circulation, per capita of the population of the city in which it is printed is greater than that of any other paper in the country.

The Indianapolis News, established in 1869, was the first high class two-cent evening paper in the west. It now publishes six regular editions, of from sixteen to twenty-eight pages daily; has the Associated Press and United Press services; 700 special correspondents, covering the news of the state and country; a modern art equipment, and a large and capable editorial staff. Its mechanical equipment, complete in every way, includes twenty-two linotype machines, two sextuples and two double-deck quintuple color presses, with a total output of 120,000 twelve page papers per hour.

THERE'S A REASON!

In twelve years The News doubled its circulation; there must be a reason for it, and that reason is given in a few words:
It's the leading newspaper in Indiana.
It's the biggest and best.
It's independent.
It's clean and instructive.

LAETARE HONOR GOES TO DR. EGAN

Minister to Denmark Given Medal of Distinction.

HIS SERVICES TO LITERATURE

Notre Dame University Confers Medal Upon Former Head of the College of English at That Institution in Commemoration of His Distinguished Services to Literature and Education—Dr. Egan's Career as an Educator Began at Notre Dame.
Work Suspended Pending Trial.
His Mind Was Unbalanced.

Notre Dame, Ind., March 8.—Dr.
Maurice Francis Egan, author, educator and diplomat, at present American minister to Denmark, is the recipient of the highest honor and esteem that can be conferred on a Catholic layman by the University of Notre Dame. This decoration of honor is the Laetare medal, which is conferred annually upon some man or woman who has achieved distinction in art, literature, science or philanthropy.

The award to Dr. Egan is made for the distinction that accompanies his services to literature and education.
For almost a score of years before he received his present appointment from President Roosevelt he was a professor of literature and an author of considerable reputation. Dr. Egan first began his career as an educator
as a member of the faculty of the University of Notre Dame and head of the college of English here. During that time he published several works on literary criticism, and has been classed as among the three best sonneters in the English language. Because of the fact that the literary quality of his work is of such a high order and that his themes are of such wholesome and elevating sort has led the trustees of the University of Notre Dame to select Dr. Egan as recipient of the Laetare medal this year.

PEARY'S EXCUSE

He Says Magazines Will Not Allow Him to Give Papers to Congress.

Washington, March 8.—Civil Engineer Robert E. Peary has refused to submit to the house committee on naval affairs his proofs that he reached the north pole. He said he was all tied up with magazine contracts and could not take a chance of being sued by publishers for permitting his data to become public property prior to its publication in their magazines. Representative Macon of Arkansas, a member of the committee, urges that nothing be done for Peary until he has placed all his original documents before the committee. He said that since he made an announcement of his position on the Peary reward he had received the written approval of 3,000 of his constituents.

At its next meeting the committee will decide finally whether or not Mr.
Peary will have to place his original documents before congress.

GOING TO KEEP IT OUT OF THE COURT

Kansas City's Big Sensation to Be Hushed Up.

Kansas City, March 8.—Jere S.
Lillis, president of the Western Exchange bank, who was shockingly mutilated with a knife when John P.
Cudahy came home and found him with Mrs. Cudahy, will recover. At St. Mary's hospital it is said his wounds, while severe, are not dangerous. He will be scarred for life. That she had endured the brutal treatment of her husband longer than she could bear, was the statement of Mrs. Jack Cudahy. She added that she would never live with Mr. Cudahy again, that she never wanted to see his face again.
It has been announced that there will be no prosecution in the affair.
"The Cudahy affair is settled," one attorney said. "We can say nothing more now. The entire trouble is ended."

W. T. Johnson, counsel for the Lil-

his family and close personal friend of Jere Lillis, said: "I understand that Mr. Lillis's condition is much better. Unless there are unexpected developments, none of the wounds will be serious. The doctor does not know now whether he will be disgraced for life, but we hope not. Mr. Lillis will soon be able to make a statement for himself about the unfortunate affair."

CHARGED WITH MURDER

Student Who Shot Into Crowd Now on Trial.

New York, March 8.—Indicted for murder in the first degree, Vincent W.
Staple, twenty-four years old, a student in the College of the City of New York, is on trial before Judge Crane.
He is charged with the murder of John McGrath, nineteen years old. Self-defense will be the student's defense during the trial, and he will allege that he was told by a policeman that he might carry a revolver to protect himself. On the day of the tragedy, Sept. 25, a gang of young men attacked his home and smashed down doors and windows. When he went to the street he was again attacked, he says,
and fired one shot, which struck Mc-Grath.
